Part B

Read the text carefully

These people are working on a big orange farm. It is a Zebediela. This farm is the biggest orange farm in Southern Africa.

The men and women are picking the oranges. They are pickers. The pickers carry big bags over their shoulders. Some oranges grow at the bottom of the trees but some oranges grow near the top of the trees. Some pickers climb up the ladders and pick these oranges. They put the oranges in their bags. When the bags are full, the pickers empty their bags into trucks. A tractor pulls the truck to the packing house.

Many women work in the packing house. They are packers. The packers pick up the oranges and wrap them in paper. Then they put the oranges into boxes. Men pick up the boxes of oranges and put them into big trucks. A tractor takes the trucks to the station. A train takes the boxes to the markets and stores.
