

Figure 3.3. Cross section of the laminated hypersaline cyanobacterial mat of Solar Lake (Sinai, Egypt). The buried layers still harbor slowly degrading photosynthetic pigments. The small white granules are authigenic carbonate grains. Courtesy of Bo B. Jørgensen.